That was my interpretation, so long as they have signs, since they don't usually have fences.

From the LSC Summary "One of the following, if completely enclosed by a fence or other physical barrier that is obviously designed to exclude intruders, or if clearly marked with signs that are reasonably likely to come to the attention of potential intruders and that indicate entry is forbidden without site authorization..."

Thanks for checking.

This Message originated outside your organization.

Matt,

Just got off the phone with Hoagland's office, and it appears wind turbines are covered in SB 33 under portion of the definition for "critical infrastructure facility" which states that people can't trespass on/vandalize property that is "an electric generating facility, substation, switching station, electrical control center, or electric transmission and distribution lines and associated equipment." So, I think we're good.

Let me know if I can be of further assistance in any way.

Have a good one,
